PARTRIDGE

A Regency Amboyna and Rosewood Circular tilt-top Breakfast
Table by Gillows of Lancaster

Circa 1820

50.5 diameter x 28 in high (128 x 71 cm high)

The burr figured and quarter-veneered top with egg and dart moulded edge and burr veneered frieze with moulded lip; above a spreading hexagonal pillar with central gaitered banding and ogee moulded collar below; on a triform platform base with rounded terminals and gadrooned bun feet with recessed castors; the base stamped GILLOWS on the upper tenon.

Provenance:

Usher family, Scotland.

Probably made for Andrew Usher, founder of the famous whisky distilling and blending company of Andrew Usher and Co., either for their Edinburgh house at Randolph Cliff or for their country house, Culachy, and then by descent.
